How to use facial hair

Firstly, try on your piece of facial fuzz to judge where it will sit the best. Apply glue (spirit gum not Uhu!) to your face where the piece will go and allow this to go a little tacky. Put the facial fuzz in place and once you are happy with its position blot it down with a damp cloth (something that will not leave bits of fluff or have colour that will run. Personally we like bits of cotton wool wrapped in nylon tights but it takes all sorts...!). Try not to pull the lace taut because this will cause the lace to pucker the skin when dry. Use a comb to gently prise up any hairs that are stuck down.

To remove your facial fuzz, firstly use some remover on a brush and apply it over the top of the piece (A handy tip is to put a tissue over your mouth to stop the remover going in or hold one near your eyes if wearing eyebrows) Allow this to soak in then use the brush with a little more remover on it to work under the lace as you carefully lift the piece away. It is more comfortable to do this in the direction of beard growth.

Please remember that by following these steps you will save the lace, and you face!

Any excess glue on the skin can be removed with the glue remover and cotton wool.

It is very important that you clean the lace each time you have used glue. If not there will be a build up of glue on the lace, making it visible and defeating the object of hiring a quality piece of facial fuzz! We ask that you also do this prior to returning the piece to us.

To clean the piece, use surgical spirit or acetone*. Allow the piece to soak for a little while before using a lace cleansing brush in a dabbing motion to get rid of the glue (scrubbing vigorously can cause the lace to fray.)

* Take care with chemicals. Use in a well ventilated area
